

WORKSHOP

LONDON BOROUGH OF SOUTHWARK

Tucked beneath the atmospheric railway arches of Herne Hill, this characterful workshop offers a gritty yet creative backdrop for film and photography. The space is filled with an eclectic array of woodworking tools—hand saws, chisels, planes, clamps, and power tools—neatly arranged but clearly well used, giving the workshop an authentic, lived-in feel. It's a versatile location that can double as an artisan's studio, a craftsman's hideaway, or a gritty industrial setting—perfect for productions looking for a blend of authenticity, creativity, and character in South London.
